Sushi/Hibachi Plans For Main Street

The Patchogue Village Planning Board is considering an application for a new restaurant to be located in TRITEC's renovated 31 West Main Street. Hoshi Sushi & Hibachi would occupy 4350 square feet in 3 units at the west side of the building.

Owner Jay Lin told the board that the restaurant would be open for dinner from 5 to 10 (midnight on weekends) and also for lunch, Mon-Sat.

Plans submitted to the board show a total of 119 seats including 69 around eight hibachi tables. There is also a sushi bar and a small cocktail bar.

areators turning May 10 at the plant on Hammond Street.

Project financing included $2.8 million in federal stimulus funds and Congressman Tim Bishop was on hand for the ceremonies. New York State Clean Water and Environmental funding contributed another $1.7 million. In addition, $1 million in state funding toward a new pump station that was secured, then lost, is now, with the help of Sen. Lee Zeldin, promised again by state officials.

The new facility, which can handle up to 800,000 gallons a day, with future expansion to 1.2 million gallons, will be large enough to allow extension of the sewer system to East Patchogue.

Paul The Tailor at 61 North Ocean Avenue, closed since the death of owner Paul Carriero, is open again. Paul's son Rocco is running the business and has hired former Nordstrom's tailor Andrew Bailey to do the alterations.
